

Web Site Privacy Statement of Parent to Parent

Your Privacy – an important message for all users of this web-site.

In complying with the Privacy Amendment (Private Sector) Act 2000, Parent to Parent provides the following advice to users of this web site about the collection, use, disclosure and storage of personal information.

The aim of this advice is to inform users of this site about:

- what personal information is being collected;
- who is collecting personal information; how personal information is being used;
- access to personal information collected on this site; and security of personal information collected on this site.

What personal information is being collected

Unless this web site asks for specific personal information in order to respond to requests for information or to register users for particular services, only the following information will be collected when you use this site:

- your server address;
- your top level domain name (for example .com, .gov, .au, .uk etc);
- the date and time of your visit to the site;
- the pages you accessed and the documents downloaded;
- the previous site you visited; and
- the type of browser you are using.

This information is collected for statistical purposes and to enable us to improve the navigation functions of our web site.

Who is collecting personal information

The above information is collected by our Web Hosting company.

Where this site specifically asks for your personal information (for example to respond to requests for information or to register users for particular services), your personal information will only be collected by staff who have responsibility for responding to such requests or administering such registrations.

How is personal information used

Personal information collected on this web site will only be used for the purposes stated at the time of collection or a related secondary purpose.

Your personal information will not be forwarded to any third party, added to a mailing list or used for any other purpose without your consent.

Cookies

Cookies can be either "persistent" or "session" based. Persistent cookies are stored on your computer, contain an expiration date, and may be used to track your browsing behaviour upon return to the issuing web site. Session cookies are short-lived, are used only during a browsing session, and expire when you quit your browser.

This web site only uses session cookies and only during a search query of the web site. Our Web hosting company has assured us that no cookies are employed on this web site except for those associated with the search engine. The web site statistics for this site are generated from the web logs as outlined above.

Upon closing your browser the session cookie set by this web site is destroyed and no personal information is maintained which might identify you should you visit our web site at a later date.

Access to personal information collected on this site

Unless required by law to do so Parent to Parent will only disclose personal information collected on this site to a third party if consent has been provided.

Security of personal information collected on this site

This site does not provide facilities to guarantee the secure transmission of information across the Internet. Whilst reasonable efforts are used to provide security, users should be aware that there are inherent risks in the transmission of information across the Internet.

Your Rights

You can request access to the personal information (if any) that we keep on record. If you believe any information that we keep on record is incorrect or out of date you may request that it be corrected. There is no fee for requesting access to your information, however, we may charge you the reasonable cost of processing your request.
